AGAINST KISSEL RESORT

THE NEIGHBORS BRING NEW INJUNC-TION PROCEEDINGS.

Crowds Larger on Sunday than or Other Days-The Court. Routine.

Proceedings looking to the suppression of the Kissel resort, at Capitol avenue and | to-morrow, and on Thursday the banks and Twenty-sixth street, were begun yesterday in the Circuit Court. Suits for an injunc- member of the board said yesterday that tion and damages were brought by Samuel i many of the corporations are raising their N. Dunning, Harry E. Cribbs and Charles own assessments this year. Following is E. Jones against Frank Ward and Anna L. Kissel. The latter is the wife of C. Fred Kissel, who kept the resort until enjoined by the Hamilton county court in April last. Mrs. Kissel is the owner of the real estate. Ward is said to be a relative and, as the plaintiffs allege, he leased the buildings and grounds from Mrs. Kissel on June 1, and on June 7 was granted a license to sell liquor by the County Commissioners. The license was granted over the vigorous protest of Attorney Ritter, who represents the plaintiffs in the present action. Dunning, Cribs and Jones own property on Twenty-sixth street opposite the Kissel place. They charge that their property, with the resort closed, has a rental value of $20 a month. With the place in operation as they say it is at present, they aver that the rental value of their property is only $12 a month. In the first place is it asserted that the license granted to Ward is illegal because it does not limit the sale of liquor to any particular room, but allows it to be sold all over the buildings and grounds. The finding of the Hamilton county court against Kissel is set out in the complaints and it is averred that Mrs. Kissel is participating in the present management of the place. It is charged that the resort is being kept open on Sunday and after 11 o'clock at night, and is attended by large crowds of men and women whose characters are not above reproach. It is claimed | Mullen-Blackledge Co 17,765 patronize the resort, "the enjoyment of their premises as homesteads has been destroyed." The plaintiffs demand damages in the sum of $500, and ask that the defendants be restrained from maintaining

Drusilla W. Crossland's Will. The will of Drusilla W. Crossland was probated yesterday in the Circuit Court. Her home, on North Capitol avenue, is bequeathed to her daughters, Clara Anna Browning, Sallie Louise Morrison and Myla Fletcher Pfaff and to her stepdaughter, Helen Jane Howlett. Special bequests are made to them and others, of household furniture, silverware, etc. To Harry A. Crossland, son of the testatrix, is bequeathed money in bank and invested. He was named as executor of the will and qualified yes-terday by furnishing a bond of $5,600. Funds from an Old Bank. John W. Ray, receiver of the Indianap-Savings Bank, which failed many years ago, made a report to the Superior Court yesterday, showing that he has left of the bank's assets the sum of $3,903.80, which belongs to 891 people. The receiver was instructed to notify these people to come and get their money.

Central Labor Union Votes Money to Carry It On.

The Central Labor Union, at its meeting last night, was largely attended. The body again took up the question of the boycott of the Indianapolis baseball club, and during the discussion there was voted a certain sum of money, and a special committee appointed, to look after the printing and the distribution throughout the city of pamphlets explaining the boycott. On this committee were appointed E. P. Barry, Typographical Union No. 1; J. Blue, American Agents, and Fred Mack, of the Painters' Union, No. 47. Two members of the Painters' Union arose and asserted that the work on the Grand Hotel lobby was being done by nonunion painters and they suggested that a boycott on the hotel be placed. E. P. Barry, of the Typographical Union, suggested that after this year there be no state labor demonstrations. Although they are working earnestly for the affair that is to be held at Elwood, this year, they feel that they will not be reimbursed for their time and expenditures, and that local demonstrations in the several cities would prove more beneficial financially. At the last meeting a committee was appointed to secure other quarters, and after a great deal of wrangling, the committee was given further time in which to select a more commodious hali.

The Summer Damsel. The blessed Summer Girl leaned out As the stage drew near at even; Her lovely face was bright with smiles, Her eyes were blue as heaven; She had six rings on either hand And the combs in her hair were seven.

Her outing skirt, from belt to hem, Was stiff and rather short; Her tie and shirt waist were correct And savored of the sport; Her stockings were of silken plaid, With boots of the right sort. It seems that she had been a week

A guest at that hotel,

And not a man had yet appeared Within its doors to dwell-Albeit to those she left at home she counted as a belle. I wish some men would come up here: I fear they won't," she said. 'Have I not written twice a day To Harry, Tom and Ned?

To Will and Jack and Reginald,

To Roger, Dick and Fred?" I saw her smile. The creaking stage Was music to her ears. But not a man arrived in it To set at rest her fears! She raised her kerchief to her eyes And wept-I heard her tears.

No one but the two antagonistics know what Herr Von Buelow said to Sheridan, the hig red wagon and whole thing of the ceremonies out at the East Ohio-street plateau but it resulted in Buelow walking from the grounds all dressed up in his crimson jacket as pleased with himself as a man generally is when he has told the other fellow just what his social standing is and what he thinks of him. Shaw was put in his place, coming in from left field, which hole was filled with Gaston, who had charge of the delivery window Sunday afternoon. About a turnstile thousand of rooters, fans, cranks and guests witnessed this exciting episode as well as the advent of Heydon, who really and truly exists, and new member Hartzell, who sized up alongside big first base- it two straight and closing up the gap that man Slater in about the proportion of 1 to exists between the two clubs for second 16. If the vast concourse of humanity had been as that of Sunday the game might have been going on yet, but a bleak and unoccupied section of bleaching boards gave the rambunctious and ripsnorting Elberfeld a chance to throw the ball through, and Bob Allen ran all the way round the bases. But for injudicious coaching he might have gone around again before the ball was found and thereby fattened the score by another run. As it was, however, the one run made was enough to iam the unfortunate and roaring Tigers a little deeper in the cage and give an "after-taking" roundity to the Hoosier per-

Barrett was first up. Owing to the fact that Heydon had not had time to master the ritual beyond the second degree a misunderstanding of grips and signs resulted in his dropping the ball when Scott had struck out the man who passed the street improvement law. Not content with what he had Barrett larcenized second base and got home on a hit by Elberfeld. Hogriever's hit in the same inning was a very dubious affair, as Dillard gave an imitation of an Indian chasing a flea with the ball that just possibly might have resulted in a putout had the sphere been handled as baseballs should. George emulated Barrett by stealing second in great haste, afterward coming home when Allen hit to center a little way. A wild pitch let Allen to third and he scored on Motz's sacrifice. A fumble by Elberfeld, Stewart's felo de se and Hickey's hit scored Hartzell in the fourth, and Cousin Sally Dillard lammed out a doubtful three-base hit in the same inning, which Hogriever's bad throw extended into score. Allen's score in the fifth, which settled the status of affairs, has received mention in the beginning of this truthful The game just sorter goose-egged along until the first and only half of the ninth. when Ryan opened proceedings with a hi lines, uncorked a few "Ha! Has!" of the kind that make a man want to throw bricks. Slater got a base on balls. After this Scott and Heydon held a conference with disastrous results. Scott having in-structed his assistant to be prepared for a low one when the left ear was waggled waggled accordingly. Heydon, mistaking the action, was under the impression that the dexter auricular appendage had been agitated and reached for a high one which was not there, and Ryan fled to third, whence he scored on Gaston's life, while Slater dropped at third. Gaston went out from Hickey to Stewart and everybody tool a long, sobbing inspiration of hope realized and despair knocked out and went home.

Man Decamped with the Receipts. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CICERO, Ind., June 26 .- "The longer we live, the more we find out" is the only consclation gained yesterday by the Cicero Reds, who went to Tipton to play a semiprofessional team just organized at that place by a stranger, who worked the Tipton business men for the preliminary expenses. The Cicero boys were putting up a good game in spite of the umpire. With the score at the end of the sixth inning 5 to 4 in favor of the Reds, the umpire suddenly and without apparent cause, forfeited the game to Tipton, 9 to 0. This feature was nothing, however, as compared with their surprise when they discovered that the Tipton manager had decamped with the gate receipts of $100. forgetting to pay the band, liverymen and other incidental expenses. The one bright spot in the whole matter is that the Tipton sports are always fair and do not approve of this sort of

More State League Talk.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., June 26 .- The organization of the new baseball league for Indiana cities is now believed to be clinched, and a meeting has been called at Muncie for Wednesday, when the organization will be completed and arrangements made for Fourth of July games. A meeting was held in the Citizens' Bank, of his city, to day, in which Anderson capital was secured to back the enterprise here. Messrs. C. F. Heritage, county treasurer, C. K. McCullough, Charles Eastman, A. F. Jones, c. M. Keltner and J. M. Rust secure the stock. The promoters have obtained lease on grounds, with an option for five years, within a two-minute walk of the courthouse square. There has been a secret understandsome weeks, and the call for the meeting at Muncie is in response to that movement to form an Indiana league. The cities invited to attend the Muncle conference are As-derson, Marion, Wabash, Kokomo, Decatur, Elwood and Bluffton.
